

NAME: Scott Elliott
OCCUPATION: President, Custom Structures Architectural Design & Build
HOMETOWN: Lynchburg, Virginia
FAVORITE TEAMS: Virginia Tech Hokies, Ryan Villopoto, Justin Barcia
HOBBIES: Family, golf, mountain biking, riding dirt bikes, white water rafting
SPACE SPECS: Custom-designed motocross bike workshop

Scott Elliott got his first dirt bike when he was 5 years old and remembers a happy childhood riding his motocross bike... and still rides today. Now, Scott has switched gears to focus on his children's participation in motocross. Last year, Scott designed and built a custom garage for his family's unique hobby. From the outside, you would never guess the structure wasn't part of his home's original design. It nestles in alongside his residence and appears to be a traditional garage, perhaps with a garage apartment above. Once inside, however, you are transported to a professional motocross workshop and trophy room. It has an open, barn-like look and is constructed of locally sourced poplar with details showcased in rivets and steel. With ample room to hold 15 motocross bikes, their safety equipment and a wall full of trophies, you can easily see the importance and influence that motocross has for his family.

